S.D.'s Janklow Found Guilty

Will resign from House over conviction for manslaughter

FLANDREAU, S.D. | In a verdict that brings an abrupt end to a three-decade political career, a jury convicted Republican Rep. Bill Janklow of manslaughter Monday for a collision that killed a motorcyclist, rejecting the congressman's claim that he was disoriented by a diabetic reaction.

Janklow announced later Monday that he would resign from the House effective Jan. 20, the day of his sentencing.

The jury in Janklow's boyhood hometown deliberated for about five hours before returning its verdict. Janklow appeared stunned as the verdict was read. He later refused to respond to questions shouted by reporters.

Janklow, 64, was convicted of second-degree manslaughter, reckless driving, running a stop sign and speeding for the Aug. 16 crash that killed Randy Scott, 55, a farmer from Hardwick, Minn. Prosecutors said Janklow was traveling more than 70 mph when he crashed with Scott's Harley-Davidson.

Janklow could get up to 10 years in prison on the manslaughter charge. CARSON WALKER (AP)

Dean to Get Gore Support

Key endorsement adds to front-runner's momentum

MANCHESTER, N.H. | Former Vice President Al Gore intends to endorse Howard Dean for the Democratic presidential nomination, a dramatic move that could tighten Dean's grip on the front-runner position.

Gore, who won the popular vote but lost the electoral vote in the disputed 2000 election, has agreed to endorse the former Vermont governor in New York City's Harlem neighborhood on Tuesday, said a source close to Gore. The two men will then travel to Iowa, site of the Jan. 19 caucuses that kick off the nominating process, the source said.

Dean's campaign declined to comment.

The former vice president is widely popular among key primary voters due in part to the widespread belief among Democratic activists that the 2000 election was taken from him.

Gore's endorsement carries more weight than Dean's labor endorsements, said American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees President Gerald McEntee.

"It goes so far in dispelling this idea that swirls around that Dean would not be a good candidate in the [election]," he said. "If there is anybody ... who wants to beat George Bush again, I think it's Al Gore." RON FOURNIER (AP)

Last Stop

Mistake No. 1: Impersonating a police officer. Mistake No. 2: Making a traffic stop. Mistake No. 3: Stopping an off-duty state trooper. Shalom Gelbman, 22, of New Square, N.Y., made all three mistakes, state police said. Gelbman, with a strobe light on his dashboard and his high beams flashing, pulled a car over last Wednesday on the Palisades Interstate Parkway, police said. Inside the car was state Trooper Seamus Lyons, who arrested Gelbman. (AP)

Billionaire Kirk Kerkorian, who spent two days testifying against DaimlerChrysler AG in Wilmington, Del., last week, has liked the courtroom portraits of himself so much he bought them. Kerkorian purchased five pastel sketches drawn by Susan Schary, the Detroit News reported Monday. Kerkorian is seeking $1 billion in damages for money he says his company, Tracinda Corp., lost when Daimler-Benz merged with Chrysler in 1998. (AP)

If you're sick of that boring old car wash, you may want to visit a new business outside Memphis, Tenn. It combines one part car wash and one part strip club to bring you topless car care. The Memphis Commercial Appeal reports that the T&A Gentleman's Car Wash, which opened Thursday, employs 10 women who wash cars for $30 per vehicle, plus tips. City officials say they may take action to keep employees' tops on. (EXPRESS)

A decade after Ogust paid $20 to liberate Empress, his Manhattan loft is filled with 80 species of turtles — more than the Bronx Zoo. The operation costs about $20,000 a month, so much that Ogust has organized a nonprofit group with the goal of moving his menagerie to 50 acres on a farm in Tewksbury, N.J. Private donors and grants help, but so far Ogust, who has an inheritance, is footing most of the bill himself. (AP)

Republicans Push $373B Spending Bill Through House

Republicans pushed a tardy $373-billion spending package through the House on Monday despite conservative objections that the measure had too many hometown projects and Democratic complaints that it would hurt workers. The 242-176 vote left the bill in the hands of the Senate, where its fate seemed uncertain. The vast bill would finance most of the government's domestic programs for the fiscal year that began Oct. 1. (AP)

Customs Agent Sean Rafferty testified Monday he found "suspicious" documents related to national security in the backpack of a Muslim chaplain accused of mishandling classified documents from the U.S. military prison at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Army Capt. James Yee, 35, is charged with disobeying an order by taking home classified material from the prison, among other things. The preliminary hearing that began Monday will determine if Yee should be court-martialed. (AP)

Bush Signs $400B Medicare Measure

Move adds prescription drug benefit to program

WASHINGTON | President Bush on Monday signed into law the most far-reaching changes in Medicare in nearly four decades, an overhaul that includes for the first time a prescription-drug benefit for seniors.

Bush said the measure, estimated to cost $400 billion over the next 10 years, would give older Americans "more control over their health care, so they can receive the modern medical care they deserve."

The new law will carry out the most extensive changes since Medicare's creation in 1965. It adds a prescription drug benefit beginning in 2006. It also encourages insurance companies to offer private plans to millions of older Americans who now receive health care benefits under terms fixed by the government.

Leading Democrats have charged this would lead to the destruction of the Medicare program as it was originally designed. SCOTT LINDLAW (AP)

MEDICARE MODIFIED

The changes to the Medicare system enacted Monday include:

- Allowing private companies to administer the program's new prescription drug benefit.
- Aiming to speed generic drugs to market by limiting ability of pharmaceutical companies to block cheaper equivalents.
- Devoting about $25 billion to increasing payments to rural hospitals and doctors.

Talks Break Off In Grocery Strike

LOS ANGELES | Contract talks between grocery companies and picketing workers in Southern California have broken off and no new talks are scheduled, officials said.

About 70,000 grocery clerks went on strike or were locked out Oct. 11 at nearly 860 Ralphs, Albertsons, Vons and Pavilions stores.

The dispute centers on a demand by the stores that workers pay more of their health insurance costs. (AP)

Blood in Car Matches N.D. Student

GRAND FORKS, N.D. | A knife and blood matching Dru Sjodin's type were found in the car belonging to the man accused of kidnapping the University of North Dakota student, a source told The Associated Press on Monday.

The source close to the investigation told the AP about the knife discovery in the car's trunk and confirmed earlier reports about the blood and a knife sheath being found at the mall where Sjodin disappeared.

Sjodin, 22, of Pequot Lakes, Minn., was last heard talking to her boyfriend on a cell phone on Nov. 22 after she left her job at a Victoria's Secret at the Grand Forks mall.

Convicted rapist Alfonso Rodriguez Jr., 50, has been charged with kidnapping Sjodin. Evidence in the case, which was sealed by a judge after Rodriguez's arrest, should be released on Tuesday, the source said.

Rodriguez's maroon, four-door 2002 Mercury Sable was impounded by authorities before his Dec. 1 arrest in Crookston, Minn.

David Dusek, Rodriguez's public defender, has said that his client said he had nothing to do with Sjodin's disappearance.

Rodriguez faces a hearing Feb. 4 and arraignment on Feb. 6.

Congress Passes Bill Targeting Spam

President expected to sign measure to reduce unsolicited e-mail

WASHINGTON | Congress on Monday approved the first national effort to stem a flood of unwanted e-mail pitches offering prescription drugs, cheap loans and other come-ons.

President Bush has indicated he intends to sign the measure into law.

Indeed the White House revamped its own e-mail system this summer over a flood of so-called spam.

Clogged inboxes have become a leading irritation among Internet users, an increasing business expense for companies and a popular target for Washington interest before an election year.

The House voted without dissent to approve slight changes Senate lawmakers made to the "can spam" legislation, which would outlaw the shadiest techniques used by the Internet's most prolific e-mailers, who send tens of millions of messages each day.

The bill was among the farthest-reaching Internet measures approved during Bush's term, which has largely continued the Clinton administration's hands-off approach toward regulating America's technology industry. TED BRIDIS (AP)

Rosa Parks Lawsuit Allowed to Proceed

WASHINGTON | The Supreme Court refused Monday to intervene in a lawsuit over the hit song "Rosa Parks" by the rap group OutKast.

The action, taken without comment from the justices, means the 90-year-old civil rights figure can resume her lawsuit against the band. The 1998 song is about the entertainment industry and its lyrics do not refer to Parks by name. The chorus of the song goes, "Ah-ha, hush that fuss. Everybody move to the back of the bus."

Parks claimed that OutKast violated her publicity and trademark rights and defamed her. OutKast has argued that the song is not a violation of Parks's publicity rights and is protected by the First Amendment. (AP)

Russian Elections Labeled 'Unfair'

White House echoes complaints about parliamentary vote

MOSCOW | The White House expressed concern Monday over the fairness of Sunday's parliamentary elections in Russia, which human rights officials said marked a retreat from democracy in the country.

A sweeping victory by President Vladimir Putin's allies pushed liberal, Western-oriented parties out of parliament for the first time since the Soviet collapse. The main pro-Kremlin party, United Russia, won nearly three times as many votes as its closest rival, results indicated.

"Our main impression of the overall electoral process was ... one of regression in the democratization of this country," said Bruce George, head of the Parliamentary Assembly of the Organization for the Security and Cooperation in Europe.

George said the "extensive use of the state apparatus and the media ... to the benefit of United Russia created an unfair environment."

In Washington, White House spokesman Scott McClellan said the United States shares the OSCE's concerns about the fairness of the election campaign. STEVE GUTTERMAN (AP)

Insurgents in Iraq Kill Police Officer, Soldier*S. Korean company pulls employees after 2 workers killed in Iraq

BAGHDAD, IRAQ | Insurgents shot and killed a U.S. soldier guarding a gas station Monday in northern Iraq, and an Iraqi police officer died trying to defuse a bomb, the U.S. military said.

The attack on the soldier took place in Mosul, 250 miles north of Baghdad, Brig. Gen. Mark Kimmitt said in Baghdad. The Iraqi police officer died trying to defuse a bomb near the government building in Baqouba, 35 miles north of Baghdad, Kimmitt said.

In other developments, a South Korean company said it would withdraw its 60 workers from a power line project in Iraq because insurgents killed two of its engineers. Omu Electric Co. has been building transmission towers in the north of the country since October. (AP)

N. Koreans To Review New Offer*U.S.-backed proposal urges 'coordinated' steps

SEOUL, SOUTH KOREA | A U.S.-backed proposal to end the North Korean nuclear crisis calls for "coordinated steps" to dismantle Pyongyang's atomic weapons program, an official said Monday.

The plan, which differs with North Korea's call for "simultaneous action," was being sent to Chinese diplomats in Beijing to be forwarded to the North Korean government. If accepted, the proposal could lead to a new round of talks.

The United States, China, Russia, Japan and the two Koreas have been trying for weeks to jump-start a second round of six-way talks on easing tensions. A first round of negotiations in Beijing ended in August without much progress.

The sides have been split over U.S. security guarantees and how to verify whether North Korea has truly abandoned its nuclear ambitions. The North wants Washington to issue the assurances simultaneously with a Northern renunciation of its nuclear weapons program, while the United States wants the North to move first. U.S. Launches Huge Afghan Offensive KABUL, AFGHANISTAN | The U.S. military launched its largest post-war offensive against Taliban and al Qaeda insurgents Monday, sending 2,000 soldiers into a lawless swath of southern and eastern Afghanistan to put down a wave of attacks.

The operation began as Afghan and U.N. officials warned that one of the military's most tragic blunders — the killing of nine children in an airstrike — could drive more Afghans into the arms of the rebels.

"Every innocent who is killed has brothers, uncles, sisters and nephews — and behind them, the tribe," said Sadokhan Ambarkhil, deputy governor of Paktika, one of the most dangerous provinces for coalition troops and their Afghan allies. "If 10 people are killed, how many people are saddened?"

U.S. officials insist they had prepared the attack carefully and were unaware of the children when the order to fire was given. (AP)

Witness: Malvo Was Not the Shooter

CHESAPEAKE, VA. | Lee Boyd Malvo was the spotter and not the shooter in all but one of last year's sniper killings, Malvo told a psychologist, contradicting the confession he gave to police.

Psychologist Dewey Cornell of the University of Virginia said Malvo blamed himself for the arrest of John Allen Muhammad, and felt compelled to take the blame for the sniper rampage, Cornell testified Monday at Malvo's trial.

The confession Malvo gave to police — in which he claimed he was the shooter in all of last year's killings — was "an attempt to sacrifice himself and claim credit to spare Mr. Muhammad," Cornell said.

"He felt responsible for their being caught by falling asleep, and he blamed himself for the failure of their mission," he said. Malvo and Muhammad were arrested while sleeping in a car at a highway rest stop in Maryland.

Malvo is presenting an insanity defense to capital murder charges in the slaying of FBI analyst Linda Franklin on Oct. 14, 2002.

Cornell diagnosed Malvo with a dissociative disorder, a form of mental illness in which a person loses touch with reality. Prosecutor Robert F. Horan Jr. expressed skepticism about the diagnosis.

House Passes D.C. Appropriations Bill

WASHINGTON | The House on Monday approved a $6.3 billion operating budget for the District along with federal funds that include $13 million to finance a contentious program to give low-income students vouchers to attend private schools.

The bill was bundled into a $373 billion measure that would fund most of the federal government's domestic programs for the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

The federal funds for D.C. also include $26 million to be split between public schools and charter schools.

The bill needs approval by the Senate, which a spokeswoman for Del. Eleanor Holmes Norton, D-D.C., did not expect to come until January. (EXPRESS)

Prosecutor's Route Deepens Mystery

BALTIMORE | Deepening the mystery over the death of a federal prosecutor, investigators searched for people in surrounding states who may have seen Jonathan Luna on the route he took from the courthouse in Baltimore to the Pennsylvania creek where he drowned.

Electronic records show the federal prosecutor's car headed toward the Philadelphia area on a circuitous path leading to the spot in Lancaster County where he drowned after suffering 36 stab wounds, The Associated Press has learned. (AP)

INTEREST RATES

Federal Reserve Expected To Maintain Interest Rates

The Federal Reserve, finally starting to see the hoped-for rebound in the economy, still is expected to leave interest rates unchanged tomorrow at its last meeting of the year, allowing consumers and businesses to enjoy the lowest rates in decades into the new year. The federal funds rate has been at a 45-year low of 1 percent since June. (AP)

Nurses Put Their Time on the Block

Online 'shift' bidding helps hospitals relieve nursing shortages

ALBANY, N.Y. | Registered nurse Julie Hill picks her own hours and pay by bidding on work shifts over the Internet — a kind of employment eBay that some hospitals are using to ease a growing nursing shortage.

Hill, who works with heart patients at St. Peter's Hospital, always bids on the early shift so she can take her 11-year-old autistic son to therapy in the afternoon. Her asking price is $30 an hour and she has yet to be rejected.

Shift bidding is among the newest tools hospitals are using to attract nurses. Since 2001, St. Peter's has filled more than 127,000 hours and saved more than $1.7 million through online bidding. Its overall nurse vacancy rate dropped from 11 percent to 5 percent.

Other hospitals have followed suit, with similar results.

More than 30 states are grappling with a shortage estimated at 136,000 nurses. ALICIA CHANG (AP)

Ad Spending Predicted to Grow in '04

NEW YORK | Two leading forecasters predicted further increases in advertising spending for next year, thanks mainly to a combination of continued economic growth, the summer Olympics and the U.S. presidential election.

Speaking at an annual investors conference Monday, Robert Coen of Universal McCann and John Perriss of Zenith Optimedia both issued upbeat forecasts for 2004.

Coen said more growth would be seen in national versus local advertising due to factors such as the upcoming presidential election and the Olympics.

Continued expansion in consumer spending is an encouraging sign for advertisers, Perriss said, but he noted that high levels of consumer debt may limit the potential gains. (AP)

No Change in Sight for BCS

Cries grow louder for a playoff system to be used in college football

COLLEGE FOOTBALL | What if the winner of the Rose Bowl could play the winner of the Sugar Bowl a week after those big games? Oklahoma vs. Southern California would be a dandy. So would LSU vs. USC.

A one-game playoff is one of a handful of solutions that have floated in an attempt to crown a true champion out of the college bowl system. The system that gives us No. 1 USC vs. No. 4 Michigan in the Rose Bowl and No. 2 LSU vs. No. 3 Oklahoma in the supposed title game, the Sugar Bowl, is in place for at least two more seasons.

Some tweaking is in order. But wholesale changes almost certainly aren't. One expert believes something close to the status quo will be used even when the current contract is up. "The overwhelming majority want to keep the bowl system in some form," said Grant Teaff, executive director of the American Football Coaches Association.

The most likely change would involve adding a championship game after bowl season.

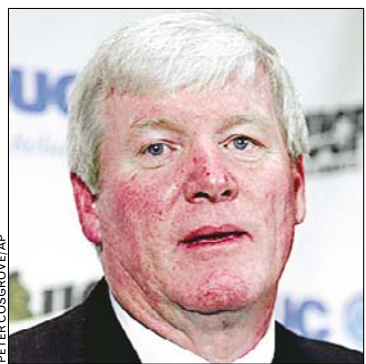

A more radical change would be a 16-team tournament. Proponents say it makes sense to decide a champion the same way as most major sports do. Critics claim a playoff would gut the bowl system. EDDIE PELLIS (AP)

O'Leary Makes Return to College

COLLEGE FOOTBALL | George O'Leary was hired Monday to coach Central Florida, giving him another chance in college football two years after Notre Dame forced him to resign because he lied on his resume.

O'Leary, the Minnesota Vikings' defensive coordinator for the past two seasons, had lied about earning a master's degree and receiving three letters playing football at New Hampshire. He resigned less than a week after Notre Dame hired him in 2001.

Ramsey Is Shut Down For Season

Redskins quarterback will have surgery on fractured right foot

PRO FOOTBALL | Patrick Ramsey is done for the season.

The Washington Redskins quarterback said Monday he will have surgery on his troublesome right foot within the next two weeks. He was placed on injured reserve, prematurely ending his first year as an NFL starter.

"We just really felt like it wasn't going to get better by the end of the season," Ramsey said after meeting with a team doctor.

Ramsey has been bothered by the flareup of an old fracture on the right edge of his foot.

The injury's origins are unknown, but it first became a problem during training camp and was aggravated in the last few weeks.

With Ramsey out, midseason pickup Tim Hasselbeck will start the remaining three games. JOSEPH WHITE (AP)

Chat House

From washingtonpost.com/liveonline

Washington Post columnists MICHAEL WILBON and TONY KORNHEISER discuss sports every Monday at 1:30 p.m. on washingtonpost.com.

I guess I'm just an old goober, but what I hate about the BCS is that it's taken most of the fun out of New Year's Day. Jan. I used to be the greatest football day of the year, but now it's kind of pointless. Either have a tournament of the major bowl winners or go back to the Good Old Days. The BCS is the worst of both worlds.

TONY: That's how I used to feel. I used to feel that the Bowl Games were great because there wasn't an automatic national champion, so you could watch them all and argue. Now, the only argument is about which teams were left out. I don't like this system. So, like you I am just an old goober.

I keep hearing that it's highly improbable, but mathematically possible, that the Redskins can fill a wild card slot for the playoffs. At this point, what would need to happen for this to happen?

MIKE: The moon would have to be in the 7th house, and Jupiter would have to be aligned with Mars. Seriously, the Redskins have to win their final three games and the Cowboys would have to lose their final three and maybe New Orleans ... seriously, don't start this conversation.

Some people say Wizards forward Kwame Brown is the biggest bust ever in D.C. I'd think Chamique Holdsclaw (the female "Michael Jordan") has got to be D.C.'s biggest bust. She was drafted No. 1, got #23 and won three national titles in college, but has been hurt these past few years and the Mystics are near the bottom every year.

TONY: Chamique Holdsclaw is a TOTAL stiff. She is hurt ALL the time and when she is not hurt, she can't carry her team to a victory. Kwame Brown appears to be a total stiff, as well. But Wilbon didn't want Kwame Brown and he did say Chamique would own this town.

MIKE: No, I didn't.

Easing the Pain

THE FLU | As the winter cold and flu season approaches, new remedies and spins on old favorites promise comfort and convenience.

Robitussin has found a new way to make its medicine go down easier. CoughGels — soft capsules taken without water — are said to tame coughs for up to eight hours.

Kiss My Face, an organic beauty company, has just introduced a line of flu products, including Cold & Flu Room Spray ($9) and Cold & Flu Bath Gel ($9) with essential oils of eucalyptus and fennel.

In January, Bath & Body Works plans to add aromatherapy remedies like a eucalyptus chest rub to comfort cold and flu sufferers.

For a natural healing approach, naturopath Paul Faust of Towson, Md., recommends elderberry elixirs. He said the berries contain a substance that appears to inhibit the influenza virus. Ricola now makes Vitamin C drops with elderberry extract.

According to Gaia's Trish Feeney, sales of neti pots, which look like mini-Aladdin's lamps and are used to irrigate sinuses, have skyrocketed and are among the company's best sellers. Today's yoga set is clamoring for them, Feeney said.

A Kick for the Shins

What's it feel like to be rock's next big thing? To the Shins, like normal

PERSONALITY | The Shins are the kind of band that has no business having a career, at least not now. Their music is built on soft-cornered melodies, weird chord changes and a shimmering ambiguity that hardly fit with the crisp, direct, sharp-edged sound of the so-called garage-rock revival.

But here they are, newly crowned rock 'n' roll royalty.

Lead singer, songwriter and guitarist James Mercer, 32, conceded that the Portland, Ore.-based Shins have little to do with the now-reigning garage-rock sound. "They're rock 'n' roll songs with a melodic line and a good beat," he said, sipping a beer. "What kids have liked since the early '50s."

This band was formed in Albuquerque, N.M., though Mercer

MELANCHOLY BABY: The dark Shins aren't your little brother's garage-rock band.

— the son of an Air Force colonel — grew up mostly in Germany and England. In high school near London, he was turned on by the Smiths, the Jesus and Mary Chain and My Bloody Valentine.

"There's a certain weird melancholy to the melodies that I've always enjoyed," he says of English music. "I read in ... one of the romantic poets that long ago they believed that the gall bladder created melancholy — and that only the British had that organ."

His own songs are full of visual imagery that is arresting and at times overwrought: grass growing from bedsheets, ice cubes melting in the ocean, and a girl who looks "like a knife wearing tennis shorts."

"I spent days and days in country-western bars with my dad," he said, referring to imitation honky-tonks in Germany that offered wet T-shirt contests and pits where visitors could grill their own steaks.

But he takes country in his own direction. With its pedal-steel guitar, "Gone for Good" is the most musically traditional song on the album. But the lyrics sound more at home in a physics lab than a Merle Haggard song.

Mercer admits that there are limits to what rationality can do. "Math is a very good way to describe music — but the roots of music are unknown to man." SCOTT TIMBERG (LOS ANGELES TIMES)

King of Pop: Warhol's Factory

Andy Warhol's myth looms as large as it was when he was alive. Part of the reason for the continued fascination with the pop artist is the Factory, the art-generating safe house/nightclub/crash pad he populated with outrageous "superstars." Historian and filmmaker Steven Watson presents "An Insider's Look at Warhol and the Silver Factory," with archival clips, interviews and Watson's own take on the '60s avant-gardians.

S. Dillon Ripley Center, 1100 Jefferson Dr. SW; 6 p.m., $15; 202-357-1300. (Smithsonian)

ON TV TONIGHT

APPARENTLY, YOU GOT ONE

I WANT A DOG FOR CHRISTMAS, CHARLIE BROWN (8 p.m., ABC) Two networks square off with Christmas specials old and new. ABC tempts fate with a brand-new Peanuts holiday offering. "Dog" spotlights some of the comic strip's lesser characters, notably ReRun, the skeptical younger brother of Linus and Lucy, as well as Spike, Snoopy's desert-dwelling canine sibling. No review copy of "Dog" was available.

"My blank eyes and jerky walk scared your folks when they were your age!"

BROUGHT TO YOU BY SUDAFED
RUDOLPH THE RED-NOSED REINDEER (8 p.m., CBS) CBS, the network that used to air "Peanuts" specials, sticks to the tried-and-true with the 1964 animated musical.

This digitally re-mastered version features songs like "Holly Jolly Christmas," "We Are Santa's Elves," "We're a Couple of Misfits," "Jingle Jingle Jingle" and "The Most Wonderful Day of the Year."

I always related to Hermey, the dentist-wannabe elf, when he sang, "You can't fire me I quit/ Since I don't fit in!" But then again, I worked in several offices that resembled the Island of Misfit Toys.

SAY IT AIN'T SO, ANIMAL PLANET
THE LITTLEST REINDEER (8 p.m., Animal Planet) Speaking of misfits, the live-action fantasy blends nature footage with the North Pole legend in a tale about Aurora, a runt of a reindeer who braves a blizzard to pull Santa's sleigh.

NOT GONNA FLY NOW
THE WRIGHT CHALLENGE (9 p.m., History) follows four teams of amateurs as they use 1903 technology to build flying machines. The teams progress from backyard efforts to all-consuming obsessions. And once their contraptions do leave the ground, they come down, hard and fast. Volunteer pilot and Air Force Capt. Jim Alexander admits, "I have more trepidation flying this than I did about flying in Afghanistan."

CULT CHOICE

HUD (8 p.m., AMC). Paul Newman plays the biggest heel in the history of Western movies in this 1964 drama. Oscars went to Patricia Neal, Melvin Douglas and cinematographer James Wong Howe. Filmed in glorious black and white. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Just Jake: Tall Tales at Improv

2 Jake Johannsen tells stories — funny, crazy, bizarre stories that seem just freaky enough to be true. You don't have to believe the comedian/raconteur, but you do have to listen to the guy to hear some weird shaggy-dog stories. Through Dec. 14.

Improv, 1140 Connecticut Ave. NW; tonight at 8:30 p.m., $15; 202-296-7008. (Farragut North)

Nostalgic for the '90s: Rock for Dummies

3 The name was funny for, like, 15 minutes in the '90s, but Crash Test Dummies made that 15 minutes count, with a quirky Zen-pop college-radio hit ("Mmm, Mmm, Mmm, Mmm") and a flair for catching the sound of the Zeitgeist, however fleeting.

Iota, 2832 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, 8:30 p.m., $20; 703-522-8340. (Court House)

Any seasoned Crash Test Dummy will tell you it's usually safer to walk.

Season's Readings

Good cheer and life lessons in black and white for the holidays

HOLIDAY BOOKS | Advertisers make sure that everyone understands the "season of giving" during the holidays, but this year's crop of Christmas books looks to help kids understand the kind of giving that can't be measured in dollars.

'TIS THE SEASON (Chronicle Books, all ages) aims to be a family keepsake, with a collection of timeless essays and stories such as "Yes, Virginia, There Is a Santa Claus," "A Visit From St. Nicholas" and excerpts from Dylan Thomas's "A Child's Christmas in Wales." Illustrations from the late 19th and early 20th century give the book a vintage feel.

In ARE YOU GRUMPY, SANTA? (Hyperion, ages 3-8) by Gregg and Evan Spiridellis, Santa's having a bad Christmas Eve. He starts the day off in an itchy new suit. He must skip his usual breakfast because of a weight-loss regimen imposed by Mrs. Claus. And as he travels around the world delivering gifts, he slips on a rigatoni noodle in Italy and is nearly trampled by a bull in Pamplona, Spain.

But no matter how many things get in the way, a plate of cookies and a note from a loving child can make it all better.

Santa isn't mentioned at all in REDHEADED ROBBIE'S CHRISTMAS STORY (Sleeping Bear Press, ages 4-8) by Bill Luttrell. The Christmas ideal of compassion and generosity is the star of this story of a tongue-tied second-grader who must overcome a bad case of nerves after he's picked to read his Christmas story in front of his school. Robbie gets his message across despite his verbal limitations, ending with a triumphant "Flurry Flickmas to all!"

Someone's got a case of the blues in "Are You Grumpy, Santa?"; Robbie faces down his stage nerves, below.

Animal lovers will delight in ERNEST'S SPECIAL CHRISTMAS (Barnesyard Books, ages 4-8), Laura T. Barnes's story of a miniature donkey who helps rescue his friend, Chester the horse, who is trapped in the snow on Christmas Eve. ERIN HANAFY (AP)

Over 1,400 social entrepreneurs in 48 countries are improving the lives of millions of people.

Personal Tech

IMPULSE BUY: A convert to DSL, lured by the convenience of an in-store kiosk.

Speeding Deals

BROADBAND | Jace Curtis is the kind of customer who could help phone companies catch up to cable operators in the high-speed Internet market. Curtis, a marketing manager for a high-tech company in Austin, already had broadband from his cable company but jumped to a digital-subscriber line service, or DSL, for one reason: price.

The offer that snagged Curtis — $26.95 a month — came from SBC Communications Inc., which cut its lowest broadband price 10 percent this fall, far below the average of about $45 a month charged by cable companies.

SBC and other phone companies are still playing catch-up with the cable guys, who control about two-thirds of the rapidly growing market for high-speed Internet service.

Phone companies are turning to price cutting to close the gap. BellSouth Corp. and others are trotting out slower broadband at cheaper rates to entice price-driven consumers. Verizon Communications Inc., SBC and others offer discounted DSL to customers who also order local or long-distance phone service.

For now, cable companies are mostly holding prices steady and instead are competing by offering ever-faster service. That could potentially lead to price wars, or to a two-tiered consumer broadband market.

Phone companies could wind up charging lower rates to people who use the Internet mostly for browsing and e-mail, while cable companies take the high-end customers who will pay more for quicker downloading of streaming video and other bandwidth-intensive applications.

LIVE ONLINE

Fast Forward

ROB PEGORARO's column appears Sundays in The Washington Post. He chats every other Monday at 2 p.m. on washingtonpost.com/liveonline.

So, is this the year to finally buy a DVD recorder to replace the VCR?

Prices have collapsed much as I had hoped — Gateway sells a DVD+RW unit for just $350 or so. But if you wait until next year, you might (emphasize “might”) be able to buy a DVD recorder with an integrated digital-cable tuner, meaning you could record shows much easier than you can with any VCR today.

I want a digital SLR (single-lens reflex) camera. I have $1,000.

Then there's only one choice at the moment — the Canon Digital Rebel. I think Sony and Nikon are working on under-$1,000 DSLRs, but they're not due until next year.

If you wanted combined phone and e-mail access, would you go to the Treo 600 or Blackberry 7230?

Treo 600. The Blackberry's a decent phone, but it's an absolutely horrible handheld organizer.

STATE VISITS

Fuschia Is the New Lime

BRITNEY SPEARS visited Seoul, South Korea, on Monday, the first stop in an Asian tour promoting her new CD, "In the Zone." She briefly posed for the cameras wearing a pink Hanbok, a traditional Korean dress. (AP)

Why Woody?

It's a law of (human) nature: A nerd and his glasses are soon parted. This statue of WOODY ALLEN wasn't safe even in Spain. The statue's right spectacle frame was damaged in the northern university city of Oviedo on Sunday. The bust had recently been restored after a similar act of vandalism. (EXPRESS)

Ozzy Osbourne broke his collarbone and six ribs in an accident on Monday.

TROUBLES

Ozzy Gravely Injured

OSZY OSBOURNE was seriously hurt Monday in an accident on the grounds of his estate in England and underwent emergency surgery, a spokeswoman said. The 55-year-old rock star was riding a "quad bike," or all-terrain vehicle, on his Buckinghamshire property when the accident occurred. His injuries were not considered to be life-threatening, she said. Osbourne broke his collarbone, six ribs and a vertebra in his neck. (AP)

TREATS

It's Just a Song

The Drudge Report Web site printed lyrics Friday from a tape it had obtained featuring EMINEM performing such lines as "I don't rap for dead presidents. I'd rather see the president dead."

No president is named. A spokesman for Interscope Records, Eminem's label, said: "This is an unfinished song that was either lost or stolen, and there was no determination when, where, how or if it was going to be used." (AP)

Ehrlich's eBay Adventure

Maryland's Ehrlich administration is turning to eBay to unload the Maryland Independence, a yacht built in 1944. A spokesperson for

GOV. ROBERT EHRLICH said the No. 1 reason for selling the state's yacht is that it was a promise Ehrlich made during his gubernatorial campaign last year: "The governor felt it was not an efficient use of money even in good times." The annual operating costs of about $230,000 "can be used for other purposes," he said. (AP)

Letters

TO THE EDITOR

IN RESPONSE to Nichole Brown's letter (Dec. 5), I am angered by the continued atmosphere of fear in the aftermath of the tragic events of Sept. 11, 2001. In her letter, Ms. Brown contributes to this fear by requesting metal detectors at Metro stations. Not only would this create significant impediments to moving people in and out of the Metro system quickly and efficiently, it also would bring America one step closer to becoming a police state, with privacy and personal freedom lost for the sake of a false sense of security.

—KELISA KEHNE-CLIFF
Alexandria, Va.

I TRULY HOPE THE BAN on smoking in D.C. passes ("Council Considers D.C. Smoking Ban," Dec. 4). Have District businesses ever considered the money they lose from patrons who choose not to go to bars, clubs and pool halls because they don't want to come home smelling like an ashtray? And what about the employees? If word got out that employees at other businesses were exposed to deadly toxic fumes, there would be an outcry. Yet business owners and legislators continue to bow to the dollar sign at the expense of public health.

—KENDRA HILL
Germantown, Md.

Horoscope | Stella Wilder

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Though you may have no personal knowledge of past events that are affecting you, you can make things easier.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You may want to take a little time to get back to the basics and get in touch with your center before things really get rolling.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Be neither unpleasant nor odd — nor go out of your way to go unnoticed. Just be yourself, act normally.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Charm isn't everything — but it will certainly serve you well in the right situations. Take care you don't get aggressive after dark.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Now is no time to play jokes and spring traps on those who have their minds on personal troubles. Your humor may not be appreciated.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — There is no reason for you to think that you're about to fall victim to a common threat; you have what it takes to steer clear — with ease.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — This should prove a day that lives in your memory for some time — if not for what you do, then for what you fail to do. Pay attention.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — You are anxious to see that your version of things turns out to be the most accurate. Indeed, you're certainly on the right track.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — A family member is eager for you to be pleased and proud. You will have reason to be so. Show your approval openly and freely.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — One of your secret admirers isn't likely to be secret for very long. You'll discover that a friend in need is a friend indeed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Someone will give you a head start. You'll have the opportunity to show your gratitude in no uncertain terms very soon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Speculation must not lead you down a corridor of falsehood; take care that you're dealing with the facts, and avoid believing in fiction.

LIVE ONLINE

Politics

From washingtonpost.com/liveonline

JAMES W. PINDELL, PoliticsNH.com managing editor and political reporter, was online Monday to discuss next month's primary in New Hampshire.

The New Hampshire primary is always discussed in the context of its influence and potential to predict who will be a party's presidential nominee. Is there any evidence that it might also indicate which party's final nominee might win the presidential election?

The truth is that Iowa and New Hampshire really do more to winnow down the field of candidates than they do in selecting presidents. Look to N.H. to be a battleground. It has voted for the general election winner as far back as I can remember.

Why is it that candidates have been spending more than twice as much money in Iowa as in New Hampshire this year?

As much as I hate to admit it, the reason is that Iowa is where the action is. Poll numbers suggest a dogfight for first place there between Howard Dean and Dick Gephardt. Third and fourth place could be up for grabs.

Even though Sen. John Kerry is now talking about finishing in the top two in New Hampshire, is it probable that he is cratering and could finish third or even fourth?

I will say it here: John Kerry could finish third in New Hampshire, but I see that as highly unlikely right now. The battle for third place in N.H. recently has been a contest between John Edwards and Wesley Clark. During this period there has been a lot of inside-baseball fighting between the two, but now both Edwards and Clark are looking at Kerry sink and wondering if they can grab second. Look for some shot at Kerry in Tuesday night's debate from New Hampshire.
